ITEM 2: EDUCATIONAL BACKGROUND AND BUSINESS EXPERIENCE

Education and Business Standards:

APA maintains no rigid educational or business background requirements for its employees, but professional personnel generally have a minimum of a college degree or equivalent business experience. All associated persons providing investment advice are required to pass a securities examination. The IARs responsible for providing investment advice to clients must have successfully passed the FINRA Series 65 or 66. FINRA grants exceptions to this rule if an IAR has a professional designation of Certified Financial Planner (CFP), Chartered Financial Consultant (ChFC), PFS, CFA or CIC.

YEAR OF BIRTH 1953

Executive Summary:

Richard Lee Cox, Sr. began his financial services career in 1976 as a field agent for a regional insurance company. He earned recognition as outstanding agent of the year for several years, primarily because of his unique insurance analysis and review process he created for use with his clients. He was eventually promoted to Unit Supervisor and managed a team of agents until leaving the firm to start his own practice in 1984.

Not having a formalized college education after graduating high school he enrolled in an advanced insurance educational program in 1977 and continued his financial planning education at the American College in Bryn Mawr, PA and later the College for Financial Planning in Denver, CO. He has earned several professional designations. In 2006 he challenged and passed the two-day 10 hour Certified Financial Planner™ exam.

“A Fiduciary is one who has a legal obligation to represent you and your best interest when rendering financial advice or recommendations.”

It requires a process of data gathering, pulling together all the financial facts about the client, then exploring the goals and objectives you have established for your company, your family, or your organization, through a process of meetings used to clarify and refine each goal until they understand your needs.

Then they begin the process of evaluation of the available providers of products or services, examining each one independently and collectively against each other to discover those best suited to aid in achieving your goals. Once established they will then meet with you regularly to monitor and adjust your plan, to stay on target to reach your goals.

Richard Lee Cox, Sr. elects to be regulated as a Fiduciary and uses the commission and fee combination form of compensation (also known as a Hybrid Model in the industry) because when completing financial plans for clients they may not know, how or where to acquire the recommended products, thus hindering them from completing the recommendations contained in their financial plans. By offering these additional products it allows the client to receive professional advice concerning proper type and benefits to fit within the clients' stated needs. This in turn results in better service to the client, less effort in obtaining necessary products and allows servicing and monitoring of plan over time. Mr Cox discloses any potential conflicts of interest at the time of a recommendation. The interests of the clients always come first, irrespective of the type of compensation earned.

In 1984 he founded Cox Financial Centers, Inc. an independent insurance agency to enable him to provide insurance products to his clients. He additionally became licensed as a securities representative in 1985 to provide mutual funds and variable products to his clients. In 1986 he became General Securities licensed to provide individual stocks, bonds, and other securities to his planning clients. In 1988 he became a Securities Principal to enable him to supervise other advisors. In 2018 he became an Associated Person with the National Futures Association to act as Branch Manager and provide commodity futures and pooled investments to his clients.

In 1992 he became the Legal Agent and Managing Principal for FSC Advisory Corporation a wholly owned SEC Registered Investment Advisory firm of Financial Service Corporation, through which they offered fee-based investment advice and financial planning to his clients. The experience gained in operating the fee-based firm proved valuable in the design and build out of his own accounting and Registered Investment Advisory firm Cox Wealth Management, LLC which he founded in 1998. In 2017 he transferred the RIA business activities of Cox Wealth Management, LLC to American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. a SEC Registered Investment Advisory firm to lower the associated costs with his advisory business, the accounting services continue under Cox Wealth Management, LLC.

In 1993 he founded Legacy Trust Administration Services, Inc. and serves as its CEO. Legacy provides trust, estate, and business accounting services to its clients.

He founded Advisor Planning Corporation in 2001 as a consulting firm to other financial planners and financial services companies. He has served as outside consultant to many of the firms through which he has been associated, as well as on various advisory boards in the industry. He is also a council member of Gerson Lehman Group a global network of professionals that provides ad-hoc consulting services. Their clients include Fortune 500 companies in nearly every sector and leading professional services firms and financial institutions. In 2019 Advisor Planning Corporation was merged into Cox Financial Centers.

Richard Lee Cox, Sr is also a Registered Principal of American Portfolios Financial Services, Inc a registered broker dealer, where he supervises other independent offices affiliated with the firm.

Mr. Richard Lee Cox, Sr. also serves a portfolio manager using the AP2 platform offered by American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. His investment models are designed using his unique investing process which incorporate the three types of investment management, ... Fundamental, Technical, and Efficient Frontier.

Using Fundamental Analysis, he carefully selects the investments to be used, by screening the available universe by desirable financial ratings and peer leadership. He then uses Technical analysis to measure the current momentum as measured by the sector, peer group, and index. He then uses risk analytics commonly known as the Sharp Curve/ Efficient Frontier to adjust the models to match the clients stated risk tolerance.

These Models are then used to invest the client's funds and monitored on a regular basis, with changes made as the market or investments change over time. He may receive additional compensation when he is hired to manage accounts for clients of other advisors.

To the extent that Mr. Cox recommends the purchase of securities, insurance or other commission products, a conflict of interest could exist because Mr. Cox may receive such sales compensation, however as a firm we endeavor to place the best interest of the clients and their needs first and advise that any commissionable product may be purchased from another broker.

For example, as part of American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. fiduciary duty to clients, Mr. Cox will endeavor that his recommendations will only be made to the extent that they are reasonably believed to be suitable and in the best interests of the client, regardless of compensation. Additionally, material conflicts presented by these practices are disclosed to clients prior to entering any new advisory, brokerage, or consultative arrangement.

Accordingly, some accounts selected by clients may be designated as “commission accounts” where Mr. Cox receives only commissions as compensation for his services, or as an “advisory account” where fees are based on a fixed, hourly or percentage of assets under management, with no commissions charged. Both are not allowed in the same client account. Insurance commissions may be paid on insurance products as recommended. However, there is no requirement that any insurance products be purchased from Richard Lee Cox, Sr., or his affiliated companies. The premium is established by the company providing coverage and pricing is the same if purchased direct from the insurance company or through Mr. Cox.

Note that some clients may have 2 or more separate accounts that may be charged using different methods; therefore, to mitigate the conflicts of interest, Mr. Cox only gets compensated from one method or the other, in any account, but not both.

Service fees (sometimes called 12b-1 fees or marketing fees) may be paid by mutual funds or other investment management companies to Richard Lee Cox, Sr in his capacity as a Registered Representative. He attempts to use no-load or load waived funds in advisory accounts which typically do not pay 12-b1 fees, if a 12b-1 fee happens to be paid it will be credited back to the advisory account. We strive to obtain the best price for the client based upon fund availability.

Item 5 Fees and Compensation

A. Description of Compensation

Richard Lee Cox, Sr bases his fees on a percentage of assets under management, hourly charges, and fixed fees (not including subscription fees) as more fully explained below.

Some Fixed Agreements may be priced based on the complexity of work, especially when asset management is not the most significant part of the relationship.

Financial plans are priced according to the degree of complexity associated with the client’s situation and calculated as a Percentage of Net worth.

Fees may be negotiable with the combining of multiple accounts or the purchase of additional services.

Types of Agreements

The following agreements define the typical client relationships.

Financial Planning Agreement

A financial plan is designed to help the client with specific aspects of financial planning, which does not include asset management, unless so elected under an agreement

The financial plan may include, but may not be limited to: reviewing client short and long term goals and producing a current net worth statement; a cash flow statement; a review of investment accounts, including reviewing asset allocation and providing repositioning recommendations; tax planning; a review of retirement accounts and plans including recommendations; a review of insurance policies and risk management with recommendations for changes, if necessary; one or more retirement scenarios; estate planning reviews and recommendations; and education planning with funding and planning recommendations.

Detailed investment advice and specific recommendations are provided as part of a financial plan. Implementation of the recommendations is at the discretion of the client.

The fee for a financial plan is estimated upon the facts known at the start of the engagement. The minimum fee is \$1,2500.00 and increases for those clients with a total Net Worth above \$1, 500,000.00 by calculating $1/10^{\text{th}}$ of a percent of the total net worth. For example, a \$5,000,000 (5 million Dollar Net worth) times $1/10^{\text{th}}$ of a percent would be \$5,000.00 (five thousand dollars).

Total Net Worth is defined as the total assets over which the client has a beneficial interest in (including trusts, estates, and foreign accounts) minus outstanding liabilities or obligations. This fee is negotiable with the purchase of other services. Discounts are routinely given to members of Clergy in recognition of their service to the community.

Since financial planning is a discovery process, situations occur wherein the client is unaware of certain financial exposures or predicaments and may require additional advice which is billed outside the scope of the financial plan. In the event that the client's situation is substantially different than disclosed at the initial meeting, a revised fee will be provided for mutual agreement before continuing. The client must approve the change in advance of the additional work being performed, if a fee increase becomes necessary.

After delivery of a financial plan, future face-to-face meetings may be scheduled as necessary for up to one month to review the plan.

Follow-on implementation and review work is billed separately, according to either the Hourly or Fixed Agreement schedule or a complete services agreement as offered through the Pinnacle Advisory Service or the Virtual Financial Plan service as described in this document.

Continuing Virtual Financial Plan - This service is $500.00 per year billed quarterly ($125.00 per quarter) in addition to any hourly or portfolio fees you may pay for consultation or review.

Client elects to purchase the web-based service whereby APA will regularly update the financial plan on a quarterly basis. Asset information is updated with information provided by the Client's custodians or through an electronic link to a third-party service provider. Thereafter the service provider will pull the information from the Client's preauthorized accounts and post the information to the virtual financial plan. (For Manual entry assets, which are not automatically updated, an additional hourly fee could be incurred for research and data entry.)

Pension Consulting Agreement

Richard Lee Cox, Sr. provides pension consulting services to business clients seeking design, construction, custodian selection, investment selection, investment fiduciary or ERISA qualification and ongoing supervision of their pension plans. He also conducts DoL reviews and fiduciary training for plan sponsors, and aids in correcting ERISA plans through Voluntary Compliance with the Department of Labor.

He may charge either hourly, retainer and/or ongoing management fees depending on the plan and the services requested by the client. Compensation is negotiated with the client in writing and disclosed per DOL and ERISA guidelines in a written client agreement prior to implementation.

APA will work with plan sponsors in the development and design of both ERISA and Non-ERISA qualified plans offering advice on design, construction, assets selection and ongoing reviews on a negotiated basis either hourly, negotiated fixed fee or asset-based fee (or combination) depending on the client needs.

In no event, will APA allow a charge for individual participant investment advice at the same time they are acting as the advisor to the plan, per DOL regulations.

Employee Plan Review Agreement

Richard Lee Cox, Sr. also provides independent investment advice to individual plan participants of Employer sponsored qualified plans directly, whose employer are not under a signed advisory agreement with us or have engaged us as an advisor to the plan. For a flat fee of $125.00 per review or $400.00 per year if paid in advance, we render rebalancing recommendations as part of our normal planning services. These reviews include the analysis of participant plan investment options as provided to us and developing recommendations from the available investment choices per the individual participant risk tolerance.

Clients are encouraged to have quarterly reviews and updates to monitor the account progress, but American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. does not offer continuous supervision due to lack of access to employee participant account information. The continuation of this service is entirely at the direction of the client by providing the quarterly plan provider statements for review and recommendation.

Pinnacle Advisory Service Agreement (All Inclusive combined services)

Clients can choose to have American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. manage their financial affairs by using the Pinnacle Advisory / Advisors Choice Services Agreement to obtain ongoing advice and life planning. The Client engages the Adviser to monitor specified aspects of the client's financial affairs according to their request, including those of their dependent children. Realistic and measurable goals are developed and objectives to reach those goals are defined. The reviews of the defined goals and objectives are established and made available per client request, recommended changes are made and implemented upon client approval.

The Pinnacle Advisory Services includes: cash flow review; insurance review; investment and portfolio management (including performance reporting) ; education planning; retirement planning; estate planning; and tax planning advice, as well as including any Advisory fees for implementation of the recommendations within each area, it is understood that the Pinnacle Advisory Services agreement will supersede and include any hourly agreements fixed fee or asset management fees for the same or other services that would otherwise be chargeable.

The annual Pinnacle Advisory Service Agreement fee is based on a percentage of the investable assets per the following current schedule:

CURRENT FEE SCHEDULE

Account Value	Annualized Fee %*
$250,000 - $499,999	2.00
$500,000 - $749,999	1.90

$ 10,000,000 – UP	Negotiable

The minimum annual fee for the Pinnacle Advisory Account is $2,500.00 which is negotiable with the purchase of additional services or the combining of additional accounts under unified management. Current client relationships may exist where the fees are higher or lower than the fee schedule above.

Although the Pinnacle Advisory Service Agreement is an ongoing agreement and constant adjustments are required, the length of service to the client is at the client’s discretion.

Eagle Asset Management Agreement (Asset Management Services Only)

The APC Eagle Asset / Advisors Choice agreement may be executed as a standalone agreement when Asset Management only services are desired as part of the relationship. Any additional advisory services will be billed under a separate agreement hourly or fixed schedule. The annual fee for the APC Eagle Asset Management Account is based on the following fee schedule:

CURRENT FEE SCHEDULE

Account Value	Annualized Fee %
$5,000 - $25,000	1.75
$25,001 - $50,000	1.75
$50,001 - $100,000	1.45
$100,001 - $250,000	1.40
$250,001 - $500,000	1.35
$500,001 - $750,000	1.15
$750,001 - $1,000,000	1.00
$1,000,001 - $1,250,000	1.00
$1,250,0001- $2 million	.92
$2 million+ - $5 million	.82
$5 million+ - $10 million	.75
More than $10 million	Negotiable

The minimum annual fee may be negotiable with the purchase of additional services or combining of accounts but will not be less than $250.00 per annum. Current client relationships may exist where the fees are higher or lower than the fee schedule above.

The client or the investment manager may terminate any advisory agreement by written notice to the other party. At termination, advisory fees will be billed on a pro rata basis for the portion of the month completed. The client will be refunded the balance of any fee owed within 14 days. The adjusted balance of the portfolio value billed monthly in advance and is used as the basis for the fee computation for asset management accounts, as adjusted by the number of billing days remaining in the month of termination.

Third Party Money Managers

When certain investment management services are desired to be added to a client's portfolio, which American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. does not provide, they will then seek out non-affiliated third-party Investment Managers.

APA will conduct a due diligence process including a review of the outside firm's Form ADV, references, length of time in industry, performance, and management history. Once engaged they continue monitoring the manager and the ongoing portfolio performance against the client's stated goals and objectives.

The fee for this service is billed under the same schedule as the Eagle Asset Management Account fee schedule as described previously. Some Third-Party Managers may deduct their fee from the assets they manage and share part of it with American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. APA will offset client fees by the amount received from the Third-Party Money Managers. In no event, will the fee paid to APA exceed the amount normally received under a signed client advisory agreement.

The Third-Party Manager may have additional fees and expenses as compensation for their labor and expense. The Third-Party Manager will disclose their fees in their Firm Brochure.

Hourly Planning Engagements

APA provides hourly planning services for clients who need advice on a limited scope of work. The hourly rate for limited scope engagements is according to the hourly fee schedule as follows:

Administrative (Record Keeping, Filing, Typing, Correspondence)	$ 75.00 Hour
Para-Planner (Planning Associates, Staff Reports, & Research)	$ 125.00 Hour
Professional (Asset Allocation, Investment Advice, Financial Planning)	$ 255.00 Hour

Hourly fees are billable each month as incurred, plus any additional out of pocket expenses for postage, long distance phone calls, overnight charges, duplication expenses or any other direct expenses. APA makes an estimate for any hourly engagements that will take more than 3 hours and a deposit of 50% of the total estimated hourly fee shall be made at the beginning of any engagement.

Flat Fee Agreement

In some circumstances, an ongoing Flat fee Agreement is executed in lieu of a Percentage Fee Agreement when it is more appropriate to work on a fixed-fee basis. The annual fee for a Flat Fee Agreement is negotiable based upon the estimated work and services desired by the client and is re-negotiated on an annual basis. If the contract is not re-negotiated, then the agreement continues at the previously agreed rate until the agreement is either canceled or re-negotiated. The retainer is calculated on an annual basis but billed in equal quarterly installments.

Termination of Agreement

A Client may terminate any of the aforementioned agreements at any time by notifying APA in writing and paying the prorated rate for the time spent on the investment advisory engagement prior to notification of termination. If the client made an advance payment, American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. will refund any unearned portion of the advance payment.

B. Fee Billing

Investment management fees are billed monthly, in advance, meaning that the client account is debited at the beginning of each month based upon the values provided by the custodian holding the assets using the "adjusted balance" method. Fees may be deducted from a designated client account as a convenience for clients. The client must consent in advance to direct debiting of their advisory accounts. The custodian will debit the fees payable with notification to the client on the custodian's statement.

Clients should be aware that option contracts are a "wasting" asset, in that they have value only through the date on which they expire. If call option contracts are sold in conjunction with securities held in a client account, (often referred to as "covered call options") the cash received on the sale of the option may have the effect of temporarily increasing the net equity value of the client account, and thus increasing the amount of the client advisory fee.

With respect to client accounts that may utilize margin, the "net worth" or "net equity" value of the account, not the long or short market value, is used to determine the client advisory fee. No portion of the fee is based upon a share of capital gains upon, or capital appreciation of the funds under our management.

Hourly Fees and Flat Fees may be billed by invoice directly to the client on either a monthly or quarterly basis or debited from an authorized bank account or credit card as elected in the signed agreement. Payment in full is expected upon invoice presentation.

Investing involves the risk of loss which clients should be prepared to bear, including the loss of principal. No investment strategy can protect a portfolio from all risks so clients should understand and be willing to accept the associated risks with investing.

Risk of Loss

All investment programs have certain risks that are borne by the investor. American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. investment approach keeps the risk of loss in mind. Additionally, Investors face the following investment risks:

- Interest-rate Risk: Fluctuations in interest rates may cause investment prices to fluctuate. For example, when interest rates rise, yields on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline.

- Market Risk: The price of a security, bond, or mutual fund may drop in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions. This type of risk is caused by external factors independent of a security's particular underlying circumstances. For example, political, economic and social conditions may trigger market events.
- Inflation Risk: When any type of inflation is present, a dollar today will not buy as much as a dollar next year, because purchasing power is eroding at the rate of inflation.
- Currency Risk: Overseas investments are subject to fluctuations in the value of the dollar against the currency of the investment's originating country. This is also referred to as exchange rate risk.
- Reinvestment Risk: This is the risk that future proceeds from investments may have to be reinvested at a potentially lower rate of return (i.e. interest rate). This primarily relates to fixed income securities.
- Business Risk: These risks are associated with a particular industry or a particular company within an industry. For example, oil-drilling companies depend on finding oil and then refining it, a lengthy process, before they can generate a profit. They carry a higher risk of profitability than an electric company, which generates its income from a steady stream of customers who buy electricity no matter what the economic environment is like.
- Liquidity Risk: Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash. Generally, assets are more liquid if many traders are interested in a standardized product. For example, Treasury Bills are highly liquid, while real estate properties are not.
- Financial Risk: Excessive borrowing to finance a business' operations increases the risk of profitability, because the company must meet the terms of its obligations in good times and bad. During periods of financial stress, the inability to meet loan obligations may result in bankruptcy and/or a declining market value.
- Political Risk: Laws governing any country are subject to change and as such can create financial stress when abruptly changed. This can affect a single industry or the broader economy causing unexpected results, sometimes known as "unintended consequences".
- Derivative Risk: When the value of an asset is based upon other underlying assets such as commodities or options contracts. The derivative can leverage the value of the asset by multiples resulting in increased volatility in either an up or down market.
- Risk of Loss: Investing carries with it the risk of loss, including the loss of invested principal. Understanding this risk can help investors decide how much of their money they are comfortable in placing in any given asset.

Tactical Asset Management

The primary investment strategy used on client accounts is a tactical asset allocation strategy utilizing Relative Strength Studies. This means that Richard Lee Cox, Sr may use individual stocks, closed end mutual funds, and exchange-traded funds as the core investments, and then track the strength of the individual assets against their peer group and the broader sectors in which they are classified, either on a discretionary or non-discretionary basis, as noted in the client agreement.

Richard Lee Cox, Sr may also employ a trailing stop to sell a position if it falls below their adjusted limits. He may also employ the use of ETN's electronic traded notes which base their value on underlying derivatives such as bonds, options or commodity contracts.

Portfolios are globally diversified to attempt to control the risk associated in traditional markets, however due to trading securities based on their relative strength it may also require trading securities more frequently during times of excessive market volatility. This may result in increasing trading costs and taxes (in a taxable account) both of which can result in reduced overall portfolio performance.

Other strategies affecting all type of Investment accounts may include long-term purchases, short-term purchases, trading, short sales, margin transactions, and option writing (limited to covered options,).

Strategic Asset Management

Richard Lee Cox, Sr will also provide strategic asset allocations for those clients wishing a traditional mutual fund allocation. This means they use mutual funds screened by their objective for each portion of the allocation model and then evaluated for the 1, 3, & 5, year performance. He further screens for manager experience, time at the firm, size of the fund and star rating by Morningstar and overall fund costs. The allocation model once defined per the client risk tolerance is then further adjusted for both the relative strength and the current economic outlook as determined by the advisor, ongoing supervision and management can be on either a discretionary or non-discretionary basis as noted in the client agreement.

Variable Annuity Asset Management

American Portfolios Advisors through its Investment Adviser Representative Richard Lee Cox, Sr also provides discretionary management for variable annuity contract clients subject to the restrictions and limitations imposed on the contracts by the issuing insurance companies. He uses a rebalancing and investment selection process like the strategic asset management as described above.

Variable contracts have investment options known as sub-accounts which carry separate management fees in addition to the policy fees assessed by the insurance company for mortality and expense charges and any insurance riders which may be purchased. These fees are established by the issuing insurance company and investment managers of the sub-accounts. Any commissions paid to American Portfolios Financial Services, Inc. affiliated advisors will offset a like amount to any advisory agreement with American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. if the variable contract is part of a signed fee based advisory services agreement, and the value of the annuity is included in the fee amount billed.

The investment strategy for a specific client is based upon the objectives as stated by the client during consultations. The client may change these objectives at any time. The client must execute a Limited Power of Attorney for the Variable Contracts allowing discretionary trading of the contract.

Upon termination of the LPOA the investment accounts remain as last allocated and the owner must instruct the Insurance Company or their agent directly if they desire any changes to be made. Once accepted by APA, this LPOA continues in effect until verbal or written notification of termination is received from the contract owner or the issuing insurance company. The electronic transaction privilege given to APA may be cancelled by the contract owner at any time by notifying the Insurance Company directly.

B. Types of Securities

Assets are invested primarily in stocks, closed end funds, no-load or load mutual funds sold at Net Asset Value (without a commission) and exchange-traded funds, usually through discount brokers or fund companies. American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. may also use third party money managers to manage all or a portion of client assets if the need arises. Fund companies charge each fund shareholder an investment management fee that is disclosed in the fund prospectus. Additionally, some custodians charge an additional fee to process transactions for certain no-load fund families, which is disclosed in the custodian fee disclosure delivered at the time of opening an account.

Third-Party Money Managers charge a fee as disclosed in their respective Firm Brochure. Discount brokerages may additionally charge transaction fees and service fees for the purchase, sale or administration of investments.

Stocks and bonds may be purchased or sold through a brokerage account when appropriate. The brokerage firm charges a commission for stock and bond trades. American Portfolios Advisors, Inc. does not receive commission compensation directly from fund or brokerage companies.

Investments may also include: equities (stocks), warrants, corporate debt securities, commercial paper, certificates of deposit, municipal securities, investment company securities (variable life insurance, variable annuities, unit investment trusts, real estate investment trusts and mutual funds shares), U. S. government securities, options contracts, futures contracts, derivatives, and interests in partnerships.

Initial public offerings (IPOs) are not available through American Portfolios Advisors, Inc.
